JOHN NOLAN

John's exuberant style combines bold outlines with bright exotic colours - a true celebration of colour and form. The visual power and vibrancy of his work immediately engages the viewer.

"The images produced by John are, of course, different. Not only do they grab attention with their vivid colours and motifs, they also whisper quietly to our subconscious and in moments of quiet reflection, they reach parts of us that are pushed aside in the daily race of modern life".

A quote from the speech delivered by minister Noel Dempsey on the opening night of "making a mark" John Nolan's solo exhibition at the Bank of Ireland Arts Centre, Dublin, April 2005.

John's work is in private and public collections worldwide.
